Kellogg's Bran gives permanent relief because it is ALL BRAN!

Every member of your family will enjoy better health—eat better, work better, sleep better—if they eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. Its natural positive work for health is actually a blessing to humanity! Kellogg's gives permanent relief from constipation because it is ALL BRAN! It is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation. Kellogg's Bran cleans and purifies the drainage channel; it clears away toxic poisons and frees you from the ravages of such dread diseases as Bright's, diabetes, etc., as well as sick headaches, rheumatism and mental and physical depression. A week's trial of this great natural food will prove that its work for health is wonderful! Consider Kellogg's Bran as a food. It is not a laxative nor a medicine. Bran is the outer coating of whole wheat and contains such nourishment factors as mineral salts and other elements vital in sustaining life! Kellogg's Bran is cooked and all ready to eat. It is delightful as a cereal, or sprinkled over your favorite hot or cold cereal. Another popular way to eat it is to cook or mix it with a hot cereal. In preparation, add two tablespoons of bran for each person. Delicious bakery bathes are made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

DO TWO THINGS.—Eat Kellogg's Bran each day for permanent relief from constipation and be certain to eat at least two tablespoonsful in chronic cases, with each meal. Restaurants, hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant. All grocers.

Oh It's Nice to Know

That a very restless little boy and still for five whole minutes at the Gazette Free Cooking School when his mother promised him one of Miss Elsie Hinkley's cookies. That liquid fats, such as Mazola, do away with the tiresome task of creaming hard fats for cake or cookies. That lumpy brown sugar can be softened by putting the sugar in the oven for a few minutes. That eggs put into cookies do not need to be beaten. Time and an extra dish are saved by dropping the eggs whole into the mixture. That bubbles which rise to the top of a cake mixture should be broken with a spoon before putting the cake into the oven. That boiling eggs at a low temperature keeps the white from becoming rubbery. That a custard is done if a cold knife comes coated when put in the dish. That when a custard begins to curdle it is well to remove it from the fire and beat. That salt and cold water extract juice from meat, hot water sears and retains the juices. That vegetables should be added the last hour in cooking a stew and potage the last 20 minutes.

That in making dumplings the cover should be left off the pan the first eight minutes to keep them from becoming sticky and lumpy. That 250 women at the cooking school Thursday and learned how to prepare breaded tongue, spareribs with fruit dressing, pork chops a la Grecque, best new potatoes with fried hash, baked ham, meat timbals, Thousand Island dressing, three minute and mock mayonnaise.

That an interesting lesson on meat cuts, how to judge and prepare various cuts, was given Thursday afternoon.

That a luncheon was prepared and served correctly by Miss Hinkley in the lesson, Friday.

That the Sunday night lunch problem was solved in weekly suggestions of easy and attractive dishes for that meal and for company, luncheons and buffet luncheons.

That the school closed with a real party with all the temptations that constitute such an affair and a treat of ice cream from the Shurtliff Ice Cream company.

BABE WILL BE GOOD, HE TELLS THE WORLD

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York.—Babe Ruth, who used to be, in the long long ago, the bad boy of baseball, was back in New York, Thursday for further treatment of his finger on his left hand, operated on last week for an infection. Babe is now a thoroughly good boy, says so himself and offers his assistance to prove it.

The greatest baseball slugger of all time said he would remain here at least until Saturday—longer if the snow pile surrounding his farm at Sudbury, Mass., doesn't go down in proportion to the superstitious avoidance that he has worked off all winter.

Since retiring to the simpler life the Bambino has disposed of 20 pounds and will be back in the best condition in which he ever has reported when he joins the Yankees pitchers in the hot bats at Hot Springs next month, he said.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Pandora Nicholson is so terribly shy that meeting strangers is a painful experience. She has lived as a sort of poor relation with her Uncle Peter and Aunt Maude and their daughter, the buxom, popular, noisy Gladys. She has been told she is stupid, ugly, repulsive and of no use, for so long that she believes it implicitly. She makes no friends, there is nothing in common between herself and Gladys' friends in Norris City. When Morton Newberry, shy, homesick and not very popular, is attracted to her, their relationship becomes love. Her gratitude to Morton for liking her is intense. Then Gladys decides she wants Morton, probably because he was the only boy who never paid any attention to her—and goes off with him and marries him. Then Gloria Gates, an interior decorator in New York, whom she met casually, sends her to take charge of her small house, Frankie. In the city, Pan begins to find herself. She is much attracted to Gloria's friend, George Ridgeway.

A LOST ILLUSION

Pan was quiet on the way home, puzzled by the discovery she had made about herself. She was in love with George Ridgeway. It seemed unbelievable. Yet why had she felt so curious when she watched George with Gloria? She was convinced George was in love with Gloria. And she was sure she was in love with Morton. She couldn't be in love with two people at once—she was convinced of that. It was the only thing of which the poor child was convinced. Everything else was a puzzle to her, and she sat silent all the way home in the cab, and did not even notice Gloria's own silence. Gloria usually chattered volumes after they had spent an evening out. She was so puzzled she lay awake hours and thought about it. Then it occurred to her that she had lost most of her old, sleeplessness. It occurred to her too, that she did not think much about Morton any more. "I'm not in love with George, though," she told herself. "It's just the fascination of this exciting sort of life, and the fact that I see him a lot, and that he's nice to me." None of which convinced her, or put her to sleep. Through the open door she saw a light in Gloria's room. It had been very late when they got home, it must be quite two or three in the morning now. She rose and went softly to the other bedroom. Gloria was lying asleep with flushed face and tangled hair in a black mass over her pillow, the light full in her eyes. Pan tiptoed in and turned it out and went back to her own room again. Gloria looked ill and feverish.

And she was too ill to get up next morning. Pan, however, but little worse for her loss of sleep, was about to begin her usual hour and had had Gloria dressed and sent off to play by the time she took the breakfast tray in to Gloria's room. "You're to stay here all day," she told her with mock severity. "If you had a headache off to that dance last night—"

"I know. Don't moralize and I'll be good," Gloria promised. She looked white and dazed now—generally ill, though it was only a cold. "Pan, you know the voices of the people who come here most. Don't let on to anyone you know that I'm here," she said. "Frank will try to phone."

Pan remembered that Gloria had heard from her husband the day before—when, accounted for her fever and gloominess. While Gloria drank her coffee, Pan brought out the engagement book she had made the night before, and a pile of unanswered letters.

"All these social things I'll cancel for you the next few days," she suggested. "There's Mrs. Austen's party—you'll be well enough by Saturday. If you're good, now and stay in bed—"

She ran on, making pencilled notes about the letters to be tended, and finally went off, having phoned the doctor, leaving Gloria to nap. Gloria's secretary phoned then from the office—Pan had been there once or twice with Frank, when she was ship with Gloria. There were many things to be looked after—obviously the secretary was helpless when left to herself. Pan took Frankie to her room, and walked and stopped there, looking over the mail and finally took most of it home with her.

It was in that way that Pan began taking over details of Gloria's business. For Gloria was kept in bed by a severe cold, and general nervous exhaustion and overwork. Certain things had to be seen to. "You can go to the Reynolds' for me. Say you're my assistant," she was directed. "The workmen there are thoroughly trustworthy, but Mrs. Reynolds' maid for this daily can't get her money's worth if I'm not there every day. Ask Miles, the man in charge, how things are going. And I want some gray ticks mended for curtains—you've a good eye for color and—"

"So it went. Pan was made useful in several ways. And she enjoyed getting out, running about the big upholstery and furniture firms, and in and out of rich houses that were being done over. Gloria was doing one room in a large mansion with silver and gray carved woodwork, walls, panels of silk set in, painted with Watteau figures, and cupids in rosy clouds painted over the ceiling. Pan admired this enormously, and was greatly excited one day when she went there on an errand, and was asked to tea.

Mrs. Reynolds was very brainless, very fat, very bored, she wanted to do nothing but her new bodice and her Pekinese. "I didn't have a bit of trouble," Pan reported to Gloria. "She was so silly that I took my own liberty at once, and that made it easy to talk. I think I must have been a little condescending."

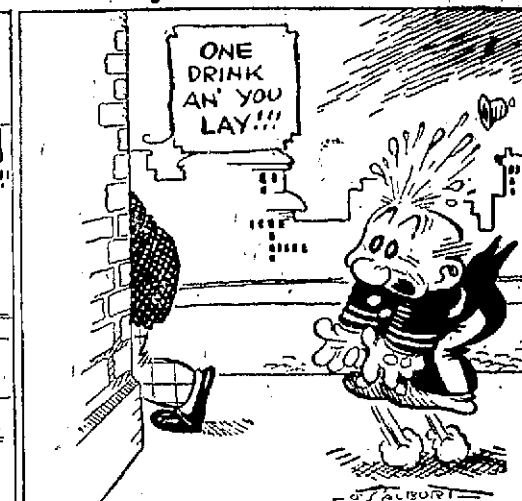

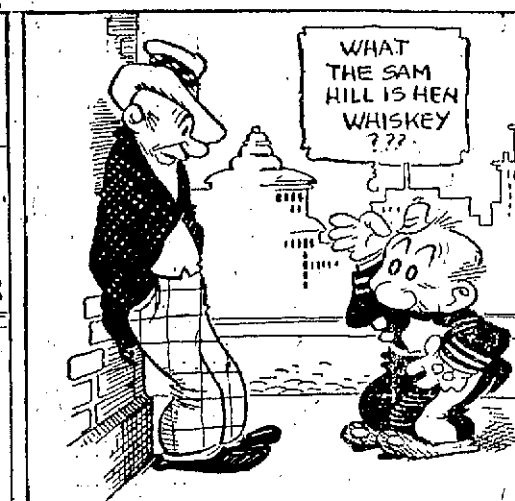

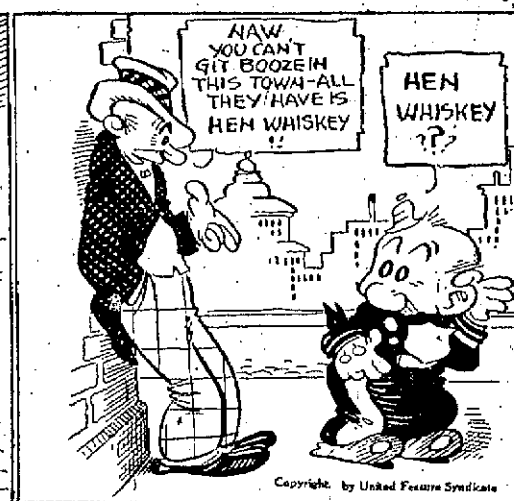

Gloria's daughter, Mrs. Reynolds had phoned her just before about the work and said something about the charming little assistant she had sent there. "You'll not on," Gloria said. "If

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I see in your column letters from girls asking you if they should disregard their parents' wishes and marry the one they feel they can't live without and can't forget.

Perhaps my advice won't do them any more good than others do me; however, I will have the satisfaction of telling my experience. I too thought myself absolutely in love at the age of 17 and disregarded my parents' wishes that I finish my last year of school and graduate. I eloped with a fellow 10 years my senior. I can see now it was only infatuation. I was in love with love, not with the fellow. His love making swept me off my feet. I thought it very romantic to elope, but have changed my viewpoint and now think it very tragic.

After four years' of marriage I am so unhappy. I find I have really never had a girlhood with all those innocent pleasures which most girls enjoy—sitting parties, skating, and automobile excursions. I was promised I wouldn't miss any of the good times if I would only marry. We would still accept invitations to the club dances and I should still have a good time. But now it is very different. He won't go anywhere with me, not even to church or a movie, and he never has a word to say to me about it. If she goes without her husband.

I admit a married woman should expect to give up some pleasures when she enters into matrimony, but she shouldn't live the secluded life of a nun. The best and only good thing coming of my marriage is a dear little girl, now two years old. She is the dearest thing!

Nothing ever pleases my husband. Every one says I am a good cook and I know I am a good housekeeper, but everything is always wrong. Last but not least he has taken a great liking for people's "best cellars" since prohibition went into effect.

Gliss, know your mind and the fellow thoroughly before you leap. EXPERIENCED PUPIL.

Thank you for sending your experience in love of saving other girls from a life like yours. Indeed, it is a rare exception when such a marriage proves happy.

Should think you could find a neighbor who would like to attend theaters with you. It is certainly not fair that you should be kept away from everything. Of course your husband's years will be while your child is too young to share your pleasures. She is a great comfort to you now and she will become more and more so. Her companionship will do much to compensate for your lonely married life.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 15. Do you think I am too young to go with boys? I have been places with a boy who is very handsome. Many girls like him, but he does not seem to care for any one. Sometimes he sees me and will not speak. What should I do, for I love him very much?

It is wrong to speak to boys you do not know if they speak first? DOT.

Yes, you are too young to go with boys. Stop thinking so much about them and spend more time on your studies and girl friends. When the boy does not speak to you he is cutting you and does not deserve to be recognized by you again.

It is not correct to speak to a stranger even if he speaks first.

Dinner Stories

"Confounded that cook," growled the cannibal king. "Here dinner is two hours late and still not a sound from the kitchen."

"Pardon me, Your Majesty," said the chamberlain, bowing properly, "but has Your Majesty's august memory failed to appraise him of the fact that he ate the cook this morning?"

"Friend," said Cactus Toe to the stranger in Crimson Gules, "you have held four of a kind three times, a royal flush twice, and several ace fives."

"You're luckier than you think. The boys here is willing to let you go your way unless you stop. The big luck for you is the fact that you happened to pick 'Safety First' week for your performance at this here card table."

When Thomas placed a rosy apple by the garden gate and then escorted himself behind a hedge he thought he had done so unobserved. But he was mistaken. An old gentleman approached him and began a lecture: "My boy," he said, "do you know that you are very wrong in placing that apple by that gate? Some poor boy might be tempted to take it."

"Well," said Thomas, "that's just what I want him to do."

"Why?" inquired the old gentleman.

"Why?" repeated Thomas. "Because I've hollowed out the inside and filled it with mustard."—Helen Citizen.

The senile passenger had been worrying the purser, the mate, the chamberlain and the bellhop until the whole ship avoided him. Finally he buttonholed the captain.

"Captain," he said sickly, "can you tell me, please, how far it is to the nearest land?"

The captain looked through him idly and snapped out: "About 50 fathoms, sir!"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Cats Trip Brodhead-R. F. B's. Cop-Blues Off to Racine

BUT ONE QUARTER TAKEN BY ENEMY. WIN BY 25 TO 11

Brodhead and Eddie Karst came to the Coliseum rink Thursday night to take the game of the year. The Black Cats, the quintet returned to Green county without a scalp. They lost, 25 to 11.

Notable in the contest was the fact that though Eddie Karst of Lakota, S. D., was the only one to score, he was outplayed. The game was played before a packed house, that showed more pep than any other crowd this season.

Held to Two Baskets
Brodhead was held to two baskets, both of them coming in the first half. In the second half, the visitors made but two points, both of them via the free throw route.

Getting an early start for a change, the Cats followed "Pete" Landwehr in his first game of the year and piled up a 10-4 score in the first quarter. The first thing that happened was the placing of a dark spot on Karst's eye. Karst, the first point, played with a free throw.

Brodhead, Good Floor Work
Brodhead was using good floor work in the first quarter. Its effect started to show in the second period, when they held the Blues to one point and made five themselves. But, that was all, despite the urging of 50 fans from the nearby city.

With Blick holding Karst well, paying more attention to the snappy player than to counting, Raulbacher showed his basket eye by making three field goals in the second half. Brodhead followed him closely, one of his fingers being a pretty, long one.

Saturday night, the Cats play at Brooklyn.

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

PROFESSIONAL football coaches or players will not be considered by the University of Wisconsin as successors to John Richards, resigned. This statement comes from Thomas E. Jones, director of athletics at the university. It means that such men as "Cub" Buck, "Jim" Thorpe and "Greasy" Neale are out of the running—if they were ever in it.

DIRECTLY after the story came out in December that Buck might be considered, this column asserted the choice of Buck was not in the realm of possibility. Thus, the announcement from Jones bears the "Busy Man" out. Tommy Thompson of the State Journal, Madison, makes an interesting comment, as follows:

"JONES and the university have been outstanding leaders in the conference against any hint of professionalism. Jones was largely responsible for the conference rule that no man who has taken part in professional football should be eligible for the conference. There is no quarrel with this stand, and the loyal fans of Wisconsin would be first to endorse a position which has made the university the center of the professional leaders in the football world."

NO MATTER how good a professional may be as a player, or as a coach; no matter how he may state his position in regard to amateurism, it would be a hard matter for any "pro" to have the interest of the amateur at heart. With the situation in the conference commencing to clear itself of the taint of professionalism, Jones has the right idea.

THE WRITER has known of coaches that have tutored amateur teams and on the side have taken part in professional sports. In every case, the coaches in question were so sure of the merit of amateurism, in that their participation as "pros" colored their ideas in defense of their position. The "pro" coach is more apt to be a philosopher than the amateur, and amateurism and amateurism are not good partners.

Dawson Joins H. S. Squad to Play Against Racine

Janesville high school's basketball team steamed out of the city at 12:10 Friday morning headed for Racine, via Milwaukee, feeling in high spirits. The squad was accompanied by the flashy Don Dawson, whose eligibility matter he has available for the battle.

The Bower city lads were fortified with memories of a great victory over Racine last year. They held high hopes, due to the constantly improving showing.

But they were to meet a worthy foe. Racine will be fresh from a 34 to 22 victory over University (Marquette) high of Milwaukee. The Blues will face a gang coached well on the short pass game. They will meet two fast forwards in Longhead and Pedersen, who will give the Janesville guards all they can do to hold them down.

On the other hand, it is believed the Blue offense is stronger than the Racine defense. A good machine game will go a long way toward bringing victory back.

It Leary, Dickinson, Austin, Conry, Seeman, Benard, Beck and Palmer are making the journey with Coach Kiontz. They expect to stay over in Milwaukee Saturday to see the auto show and will not return until Sunday night.

Three R. R. Games This Week Closing

High schools in southern Wisconsin will be busy on the basketball floor Friday night. Janesville high school goes down to Racine to have the rub and fans of that city. Jefferson and Fort Atkinson are scheduled to compete in a Rock River valley league battle. Stoughton will invade Whitewater city in another league battle.

Juda high will appear at Albany, with the girls' teams also playing. Watertown high is due to contest at Clinton. On Saturday, Evansville's undefeated five will take on Harvard. Lake Mills is to appear at Milton Union in a league contest.

Fairies Snatch 24 to 22 Victory

Beloit—In the second close game in a week, the Beloit Fairies won Thursday night. They played the Rockford Vikings, and were held down to a 24 to 22 victory.

Beloit Favored for Midwest Title; Plays Ripon Next

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Beloit—Beloit will attempt to take her sixth straight game and at the same time establish a stronger hold on the state title when they play Coach Sun's Ripon proteges here Friday night. There is a possibility the Carroll contest will take the door against Ripon saving the first five for the game with Lake Forest, Saturday night.

Coach Sundt's men are looked at as the Gold's only obstacle in the state race. Having already taken Carroll and Lawrence into camp, Beloit is slightly favored. Ripon banded Lawrence much more of a spanking than Beloit was able to hand out at Appleton last week.

With but one loss in 18 games, to De Faux before Christmas, the Gold is picked to win mid-west conference honors. Beloit has eliminated Coe, Cornell, Lawrence and Knox from claims and with the Millikin game and the return contests with Coe, Cornell and Lawrence, Coach Mills should be able to establish a strong bid for the conference title. Carleton and Beloit are at present tied for 3-0 honors and as Beloit does not meet the Northerners this year much depends on the Coe-Carleton and Cornell-Carleton games. Beloit beat Carleton last year.

Play Game Clean, Blue Grid Squad Urged at Banquet

Clean sports, true amateurism and persistence were the watchwords sounded at the annual football banquet of Janesville high school, held in the gymnasium Thursday night. Thirty-six members of the squad, the athletic members of the faculty, together with Superintendent of Schools J. O. Holt and Principal W. V. Brown attended.

Gathered around tables festooned with football equipment in miniature, even to a replica of the fair grounds field, the athletes were given a clearer idea of the benefits of sports. Prediction was made that with the increasing school spirit at Janesville high, the Blue institution within a few years will be a leader in Wisconsin athletics.

The banquet was prepared by the domestic science class. Menus were being named in gridiron terms. Letters will not be awarded the men until a new system, now being planned, is perfected.

HARDING YIELDS TO AIDES' ADVICE

Opposition Talk on Sanford Appointment Not Serious, President Decides.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923, by Jamesville Daily Gazette.

Washington.—President Harding yielded to the judgment of Chief Justice Taft and Attorney General Clegg in nominating Judge J. T. Sanford of Tennessee, to be associate justice of the supreme court, of the United States.

The delay over the sending of the nomination to the senate was partly due to the President's illness and partly to the flurry in senate circles over the accuracy of the chief justice in favoring the appointment. Mr. Harding decided that the talk of opposition wasn't serious enough to prevent the confirmation of Judge Sanford. He held up the nomination to give the champions of other candidates a chance to present arguments for their own men, but finally came to the conclusion that of all the men suggested Judge Sanford would make the best associate justice.

Although Judge Sanford is a republican, he is endorsed highly by practically every bar association in the state of Tennessee and by influential lawyers irrespective of party. He is also endorsed by the nomination of Judge Sanford, said Senator McKellar, democrat, today. "He is a clean cut citizen and a fine judge and irrespective of party he was endorsed throughout the state."

Nomination of Sanford. The writer asked Senator Shields of Tennessee, democrat, if he thought there would be any difficulty in confirming the nomination of Judge Sanford and he said he thought not. He himself will vote to confirm. The senator, however, from Tennessee has been considerably embarrassed since the vacancy occurred on the bench by stories that he himself aspired to the place and recently there was published reports to the effect that he opposed the naming of Judge Sanford.

These stories were incorrect. It is true that President Harding considered Senator Shields for the supreme bench before Pierce Butler of Minnesota, democrat, was chosen but he found that Mr. Shields was above sixty. Mr. Harding had no intention of naming Butler as chief justice. He said that at the time he wouldn't make another exception. So Senator Shields' case was disposed of when Pierce Butler was named and he was not involved in any way in the consideration of names for the place vacated by Justice Pitney and to which Judge Sanford has just been named.

Name a Southerner. The desire of the president has been to name a southerner to the vacancy and to promote a man who had already made a record on the federal bench. Judge Sanford was highly recommended by Mr. Taft who has known him for many years. In fact Judge Sanford was the head of the branch of the League to Enforce Peace when Mr. Taft was at the head of the movement and their relations have been very close. Naturally Mr. Taft's opinion of a man goes a long way with the president. There has been some discussion as to the propriety of the judicial branch of the government influencing the executive branch. There is no law against such a practice. It is understood that Mr. Taft volunteered his opinion and felt he had as much right as any other American lawyer. The president of course, wasn't bound to accept the advice if he did not wish to do so.

Politically speaking the appointment has an indirect value to the administration. Judge Sanford himself has never been a plain politician but has been a consistent republican. His brother is a republican and he is the editor and publisher of the Knoxville Journal and Tribune, one of the most influential republican newspapers in Tennessee last time and the party organization in the state has felt ever since it must have some reward for breaking the solid south. The argument is a southern state important patronage isn't doled out anyhow to republicans from the south has been made again and again in fact republicans in Tennessee feel they should have had a man in the cabinet.

The appointment of Judge Sanford therefore while not outstanding with his political record as a republican has a distinct value to the Harding administration in encouraging other republicans to hope they will get recognition from the White House.

Two associate justices will be credited to Tennessee when Judge Sanford is confirmed. Former Attorney General McKellar is now practicing law in New York for many years when he entered the Wilson cabinet but he hailed from Tennessee and when he was named to the bench he was credited to his native state, Tennessee, although he hadn't been there in many years. Massachusetts is the only other state to have two justices at present. To his credit, Harding has named Brandeis and Oliver Wendell Holmes. There is no necessity to be limited by geographical considerations in making appointments. To the supreme bench though friends of other candidates usually argue that a state with a man on the court already has enough representation.

New York.—It costs two American cents to mail a letter to a next door neighbor in New York City and one-fourth of a cent to send the letter 3,000 miles, from Berlin to New York, so a New York business has found to its advantage. An advertising circular received in New York from the New York concern sent via Berlin, printed apparently on cheap German paper, stamped with a German 50 mark stamp, cost at today's exchange rate of 2000 marks to the dollar, one-eighth of what it would cost to send it directly.

Thursday morning Mr. Hanson had the butterfly flying about in the editorial rooms of the Superior Telegram.

Wife of Russian Diplomat to Talk at Whitewater

Whitewater.—Madame Zensulidze, an American woman and a daughter of one of the first missionaries sent to Persia by the Congregational church, will come to Whitewater Friday night to speak in the normal school gymnasium. The speaking will be secured through the co-operation of the normal entertainment committee and the men's clubs of the Episcopal, Methodist and Congregational churches.

Madame Zensulidze comes from an engagement at Winnipeg. Her husband was a Russian diplomat, and after more than 40 years in the service of the Russian empire in the Near East, he finally failed and they returned to his estate near Moscow, which had been in the family since the time of Peter the Great. Blindness overcame the husband and he was cared for by him. Then came the Russian revolution and the family was victimized by bolshevism. Madame Zensulidze escaped with her two sons to Finland and then came to America.

One critic, speaking of her talk on Russia, declared it to be "the most interesting and enlightening Russia that we have heard."

WISCONSIN TOBACCO MARKET

Madison.—The Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter Friday says: "At the warehouses in all parts of the state where the best tobacco has been coming in, the assorting is swinging along in good shape. The present weather conditions have no effect on the grading of the tobacco. It may happen that some crops may run out of leaf before the business of the season is completed. The samples of the crop are sampling only whole crops which have been stripped. Some of the crops have been graded and delivered."

The General Cigar company warehouse at Edgerton had made plans to start assorting Monday this week, but has postponed its start Monday in the hope that larger deliveries can be made. Meanwhile the handling sample crops are being turned up all strip and are being graded. The layout ready for the state grader who is passing on the crops, sitting down with the respective grader. That some adjustments may have to be made as the work develops must be expected. It is expected the best tobacco will be with the grader in the next few days. The grader is making an earnest effort in grading the crops. It is expected that all crops have been gathered and run over before any grading was attempted. It might have been expected that the grading would be completed by now.

Independent assorting tobacco is bought in all sections of the southern territory where many hundred acres are still available. A check was made at the end of the season. The crop is available and that $1,000,000 may be had if needed. Meanwhile conversations between the pool manufacturers and prospective buyers are going on.

does wonders for chafed or irritated skins

"My doctor told me about it and if I couldn't get another jar I wouldn't give this one up for anything." That is how many people regard Resinol Ointment. It is especially recommended for eczema and other itching skin troubles, but it is also excellent as a general household remedy for burns, scalds, chafings, cold sores, pimples, boils, insect bites, etc. Resinol Soap and Resinol Shaving Stick contain the Resinol principle and no home should be without these products. Central Control of Schools, Plea of Judge Rosa

Madison.—Reorganization of the Wisconsin educational system, with abolishing of the boards of regents of the University of Wisconsin, and the normal schools, in order to bring centralized control, was urged in an address by Judge Charles D. Rosa, Beloit, member of the state tax commission, speaking before the convention of county income tax assessors. He urged that the regents be "mere figureheads" who have no voice in the inside directing of the institutions which they are supposed to control. At the University of Wisconsin, Judge Rosa said, these people have the idea that the institution should be for the elite of society. More attention, he said, should be paid to the common schools.

Which I took, and I am sure it will entirely cure me of my trouble. If I Could Make Aprons—

EVER stop to think that practically every woman, regardless of her station in life, will wear an apron some time or other? This is the demand for good aprons.

Why not make aprons to measure? Aprons from selected material? Aprons of new design? Wouldn't they sell, though?

It simply would be a matter of telling the women of Jamesville that these different aprons were being made at right prices. This could be done best with Gazette Want Ads.

BIG SEWER JOB 75 PCT. COMPLETED

Utilities Report Trouble from $100,000 Eastern Avenue
Project.

The $100,000 Eastern avenue out-let sewer project began in July, 1921, stand about 75 percent completed, it was announced by the city engineering department, Friday. The project now is for finishing the job about March 15.

All of the 54-inch pipe has been put in place and a little less than 1,200 feet of 48-inch pipe remains to be laid in the section between McKee boulevard and Beloit avenue. The Mierswa Construction company, Oshkosh, is well equipped for work with a number of large machines on the ground and is making good progress.

Utilities Report Trouble
Nearly every public utility in Janesville has had its service disrupted or has been inconvenienced in one way or another as a result of the project, especially in the past few weeks since McKee boulevard was reached. Thursday morning the broom on one of the big steam shovel outfits, being used to pull steel sheet piling, hit one of the Janesville Electric company's 4,000-volt wires to Avalon.

Several days ago the sewer workmen saw fit to cut a cable which happened to be in their way. It developed later that it was the Western Union Telegraph company's cable and as a result the company was reported to be without service all one night. Wires of the Wisconsin Telephone company in the Spring Brook section have been cut and removed so that the district remains one of a wire zone. The Rockford & Northwestern railway company has been obliged to run its cars in on South Franklin street and the Janesville Traction company has had to remove various wires.

Will Sewer Big Area?

The outlet sewer, when completed, will do away with unsanitary conditions which have existed in that area for many years and which the state board of health demanded cleaned up. City Engineer C. V. Korch says. The sewer of the P. Hohenadel Jr. canning factory, which has been emptying into the river close by for many years, will be connected up with the new main as will the Hough Shade company which has been discharging its sewage into a cesspool. The main from the General Motors foundry and the 15-inch main on Industrial avenue, at present emptying into the river above the dam, will also be joined to the new sewer. A number of houses on McKee boulevard, Eastern avenue, Franklin avenue and other streets will also be served by smaller mains emptying into the big one.

Eventually the sewer will be extended beyond Beloit avenue intersection to provide for future development of portions south and east of the city.

WORKER DESERTS STEAM LAUNDRY FOR OPERA FAME

Giuseppe Argentine.

Giuseppe Argentine, formerly a Philadelphia laundry worker, may soon be hailed as a worthy successor to the great and only Enrico Caruso, opera singer. Vocal possibilities of Argentine were discovered while he was wasting his lyric sweetness on the super-saturated atmosphere of the laundry where he worked. Now his voice is being trained and his sponsors have great hopes for his future.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR FARM BUREAU

operative farm school. If the farmer won't go to school, will not take advantage of the bureau or realize its merits or refuses to see the value of organization, then that man is at a distinct disadvantage. He will be lost in time.

The only way we are going to solve our agricultural problems is in organization. It is the only way we are going to solve our marketing troubles, to reduce the extreme cost of distribution and gain sufficient control of our marketing agencies to assure profit for farm merchandise. We have crude methods of selling, and we are to blame for it. We just shooed the business of marketing over to the other fellow and let him mess it up terribly to our disadvantage.

"In Rock county we are concerned in laying out a definite, concrete program—based on County First lines—and boosting for the local results. We will get them just so long as farmers remain organized and all working along the same lines."

Improve Marketing

"The Farm Bureau is seeking only economic justice for farmers," declared Robert A. Cowles, Chicago, executive of the Illinois Farm Bureau federation. He spoke mainly on marketing problems and adopting principles that have proven successful.

Our salvation depends on orderly marketing—the merchandising of our farm products, and it means that it is necessary to use the same thought and reasonable investment to market farm products as it does to produce. They who are doing our marketing are doing it on a basis of resale, and it is only natural they want to buy as cheaply as they can sell at a good advantage. Time and place are the two foundation principles to be considered in any recognized system for marketing under a merchandising system. We must think as well as act.

Know Your Neighbor

Mrs. Harry Spooner told of the success of the group organization of rural women given instruction in domestic science and homemaking by extension workers from the University of Wisconsin.

"It is worth-while to know your neighbors and the farm household obtains valuable instruction and enjoyment from these group meetings," stated Mrs. Spooner.

Several novel Bureau songs were sung by Allan Long, which pleased the audience. The report of W. G. Patterson, treasurer showed the annual cash balance in the Rock county banks to be $12,143.34. This fund will be available to help in the program of work to be outlined for this year.

Reports were carefully audited and all accounts found to be correct, with every cent properly accounted for in all departments. There is a detailed report of all expenditures and the report was accepted after being checked by the auditors.

There were expressions of appreciation for the work of George Hull, retiring president, who has accepted the office in Walworth county, having moved out of Rock county.

The new board of directors will meet soon to reorganize and outline the policies to be followed this year.

"We are a service organization," expressed President Patterson on taking office.

FIRE VICTIMS ARE IN NEED OF HELP

Anderson Family of Six Left

Week.

Left without clothing, food, and home by the destruction of their home on the Beloit concrete race, Tuesday, the Anderson family is in need of help. The Rev. Henry Willmann of the Associated Charities states.

Father Willmann is scouting for clothing for the family and some furniture which they can set up in home, wherever they decide to live. Donations may be left at the Chamber of Commerce.

In the family are the husband and wife, a girl of 18, and one of four years, and two boys, 11 and two years old. Anderson is a tenant farmer and has lived on the place about a year.

The family was preparing to go to Albany to attend the funeral of a grandson when the flames burst forth from the oil stove in the kitchen and drove the family out before they could even grasp their clothing and some money which was hidden away. The money had been taken from the bank the day before. Insurance papers were destroyed.
